VERITAS

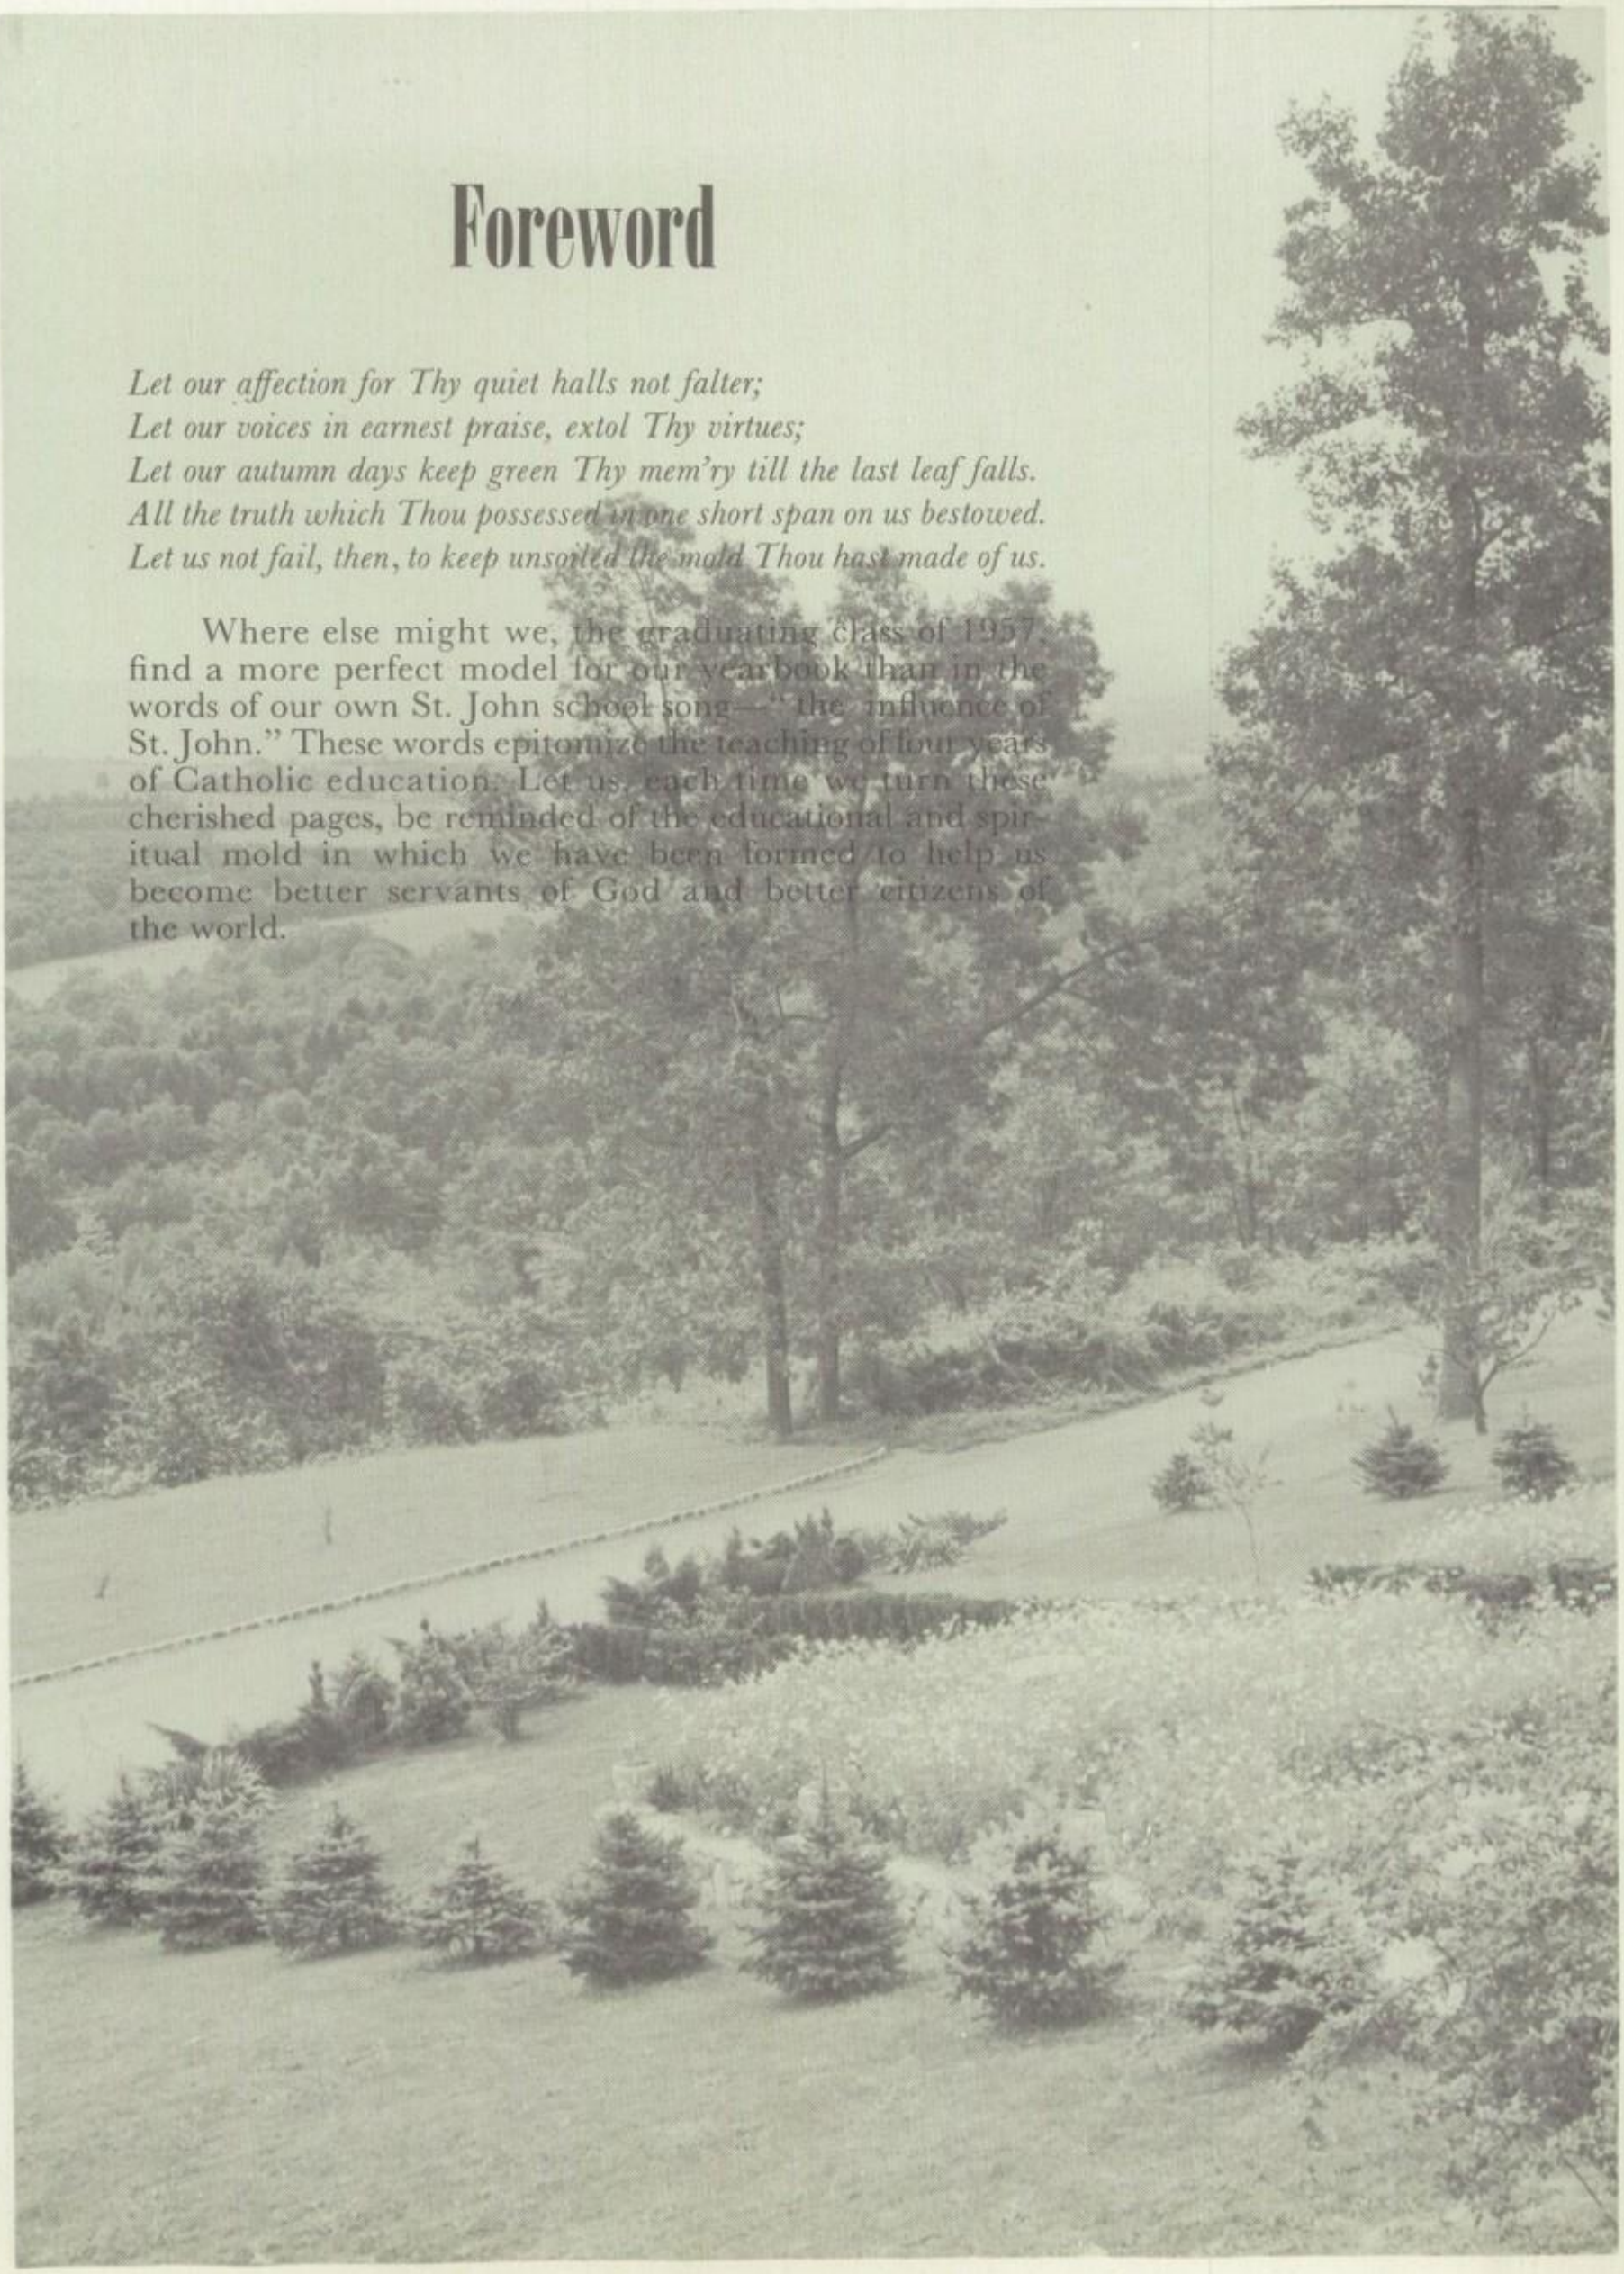
1957

Mount Saint John Academy, Gladstone, New Jersey

Foreword

Let our affection for Thy quiet halls not falter;
Let our voices in earnest praise, extol Thy virtues;
Let our autumn days keep green Thy mem'ry till the last leaf falls.
All the truth which Thou possessed in one short span on us bestowed.
Let us not fail, then, to keep unsoiled the mold Thou hast made of us.

Where else might we, the graduating class of 1957, find a more perfect model for our yearbook than in the words of our own St. John school song—"the influence of St. John." These words epitomize the teaching of four years of Catholic education. Let us, each time we turn these cherished pages, be reminded of the educational and spiritual mold in which we have been formed to help us become better servants of God and better citizens of the world.



His Excellency Bishop James A. McNulty

—whose fatherly affection and sincere interest in our undertakings has won him a cherished place in our hearts.

J.M.J. JB. May 24,

My dear Graduates:

What more appropriate and clever theme for VERITAS, which crystallizes and perpetuates the memories of your last year here, than your Alma Mater Song?

There was singing in the heavens when the angel-choir heralded the coming of the Savior-King and there will be again, and not for a few fleeting moments, but forever, if you attain your end, a place among the Blessed who follow the Immaculate Lamb withersoever He goeth.

Can your life, on earth, be an unceasing melody, an uninterrupted song? Provided you master the technique of the true artist. For your lips need not necessarily break forth into song as long as your life echoes the thoughts of a serene mind—love, peace, contentment and forbearance.

Nor will you be so naive as to infer that you could play your role of young Christian women, on the stage of life, without sorrow, disappointment and failure. Yet there can be music and song, in your heart, even when aching and broken, for the keener the suffering and the deeper the wound, the sweeter the joy and more lasting the peace, if you, Christ-like, drink of your chalice, uncomplaining, in the certainty that the last drops will taste of the sweetness that is God.

As for techniques, experienced masters suggest two very successfully used—prayer and union with God. What a beautiful life that of the Christian young woman whose every deed is a prayer, purified and sanctified by God because done in His name. A personal friendship with Christ, as with one who understands and comforts, even if none other can, will secure for you the peace and joy of heart, essential to a life of song.

Hence, dearly beloved graduates, fear not the vicissitudes of life, no matter how difficult and complex, but love God with a love that borders on the infinite and there will be song in your mind, in your heart and on your lips, while you prepare for the eternal nuptials with the Divine Friend of your soul.

Lovingly in Jesus Christ,

Sister Adolfa, C. S. JB

Dear Teachers:

Four years have sped by and now we are leaving you with thoughts filled with memories. As in retrospect we remember your words, Father Jude, "stride the center aisle of life, lighting the universe with appreciation of faith." Sr. Adolfa your rich experience has put a definite cultural tone to our years here. The inspiration and guidance we have received from you, Sr. Lucy, in matters involving our character formation as young Christian women has made you a second mother to us all. Sr. Vitalina Marie your warm friendship and the excellent training you have given to commer-

We will never forget the good times we had as Juniors with you, Sr. Juliana, and we have greatly admired the womanly gentleness and professional skill of Mrs. Fenimore. The personal interest you took in us and our activities has made our association with you, Mr. Fenimore, especially memorable. Sr. Mary Elizabeth, your invaluable assistance with our challenge of "Veritas" has been appreciated deeply.

Dear faculty, we hope as you turn these pages you will remember us as fondly as we remember you.

Seniors

Day Students arrive at 8:59 to begin a new day.

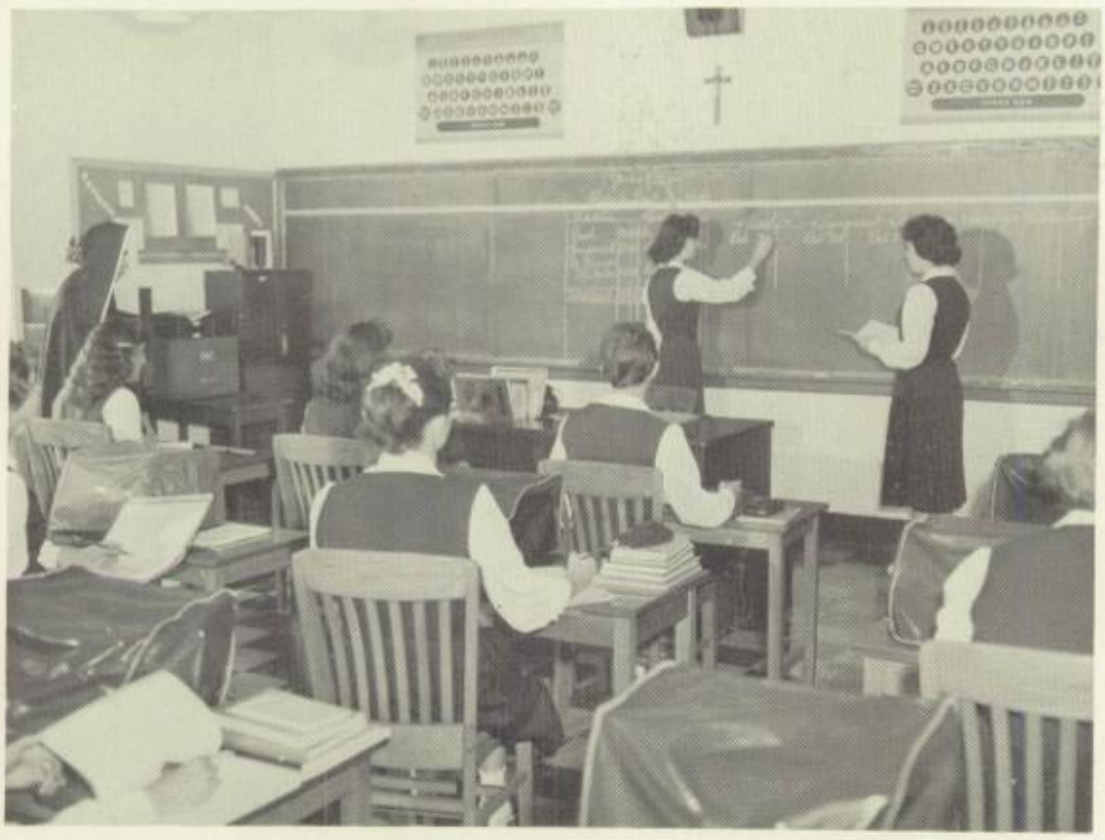
Seniors on line awaiting the bell to go to the homeroom for organization period. Sr. Lucy takes a look at Arlene Gallo's perfect uniform.

Discussing matters weighty and trivial after settling the business at hand.

"Around the mound crept Scout, his nose to the ground." Julie practices her pear-shaped tones as Arlene holds the mike at a safe distance and Johanne worriedly adjusts the controls.

"Arlene, how did the Supreme Court assert the right to pass on the constitutionality of a law?"
"But we were very busy in the store last night, Mr. Fenimore ——"

An integral part of the Senior Religion program is Father's interesting explanation of the sacred vessels.



Carol Goepfert attempts to explain how she balanced her accounts by adding her debits and credits.

Elfriede models her palla and stola for her Ciceronian friends in the Latin III Class.

Resident Students gather at Fatima Hall anxiously awaiting the sound of the dinner bell.

"Hello, Mother . . . Guess what? We're having a dance next week and . . ." Margie takes advantage of the welcomed addition: A Student Telephone.

Lunch time at Fatima Hall provides a few minutes for a chat with Sister Ursula, high school mistress.

Seniors taking advantage of their noon-time break to enjoy the natural beauty of the campus.

Pat, Margie, and Elfriede out for a brief stroll before afternoon sessions.

"Inspired by this confidence . . ."

"Dear Sirs" . . . tomorrow's secretaries diligently prepare themselves by constant practice in transcription.

Greek to the uninitiated, but to our accomplished Seniors this shorthand can be readily deciphered.

Carol stops to chat with Mrs. Jacobus about many interesting facts in the secretarial world.

Mrs. Fenimore is always eager to "talk nursing" to an attentive listener.

NOT A SOLID GOLD CADILLAC, but it takes us where we want to go.

Pat Dolcey and Margaret Phillipps assist each other with their uniform blazers before leaving for home.

Sr. Lucy's beautiful grape ivy plant submits to Kathleen's daily energetic dousings.

"Hmmm, she walks over to the door . . . no, to the window . . ." Lorraine, our talented short-story writer, is at it again.

Mary Grace helps Rose down from the rock—a not-too-unusual incident on the resident students' after school diversion—a stroll around the grounds.

Our Senior leaders: Myriam Dubourt, President of Student Council; Julie Cavinato, Chief Marshal. Class Officers: Arlene Gallo, Secretary; Mary Grace Batterman, Treasurer; Margaret Phillipps, President; Kathleen Maloney, Vice-President.

Gracie is the fortunate possessor of perpetually joyful spirits, which have often helped "pick up" some of her other classmates. A sound common sense coupled with a solid outlook on life have made her a very favorable influence among us. Mary Grace likes to joke about the fact that she spends her spare time doing cleaning, and in her spare, spare time, she sews. She plans to enter the secretarial field, which her high spirits and optimism will certainly benefit.

We have watched Julie develop, during the past four years, into a very mature and reliable companion, recently topped off by a "pixie" cut. A sense of order and firmness displayed as chief marshal will serve her well in her future years as a nurse. Her hobbies, knitting and reading, also show us the appreciation and practicality of our classmate for whom we wish worlds of happiness.

A person's truest biography is her friends, and for Mona these are many and loyal. She possesses a keen sense of humor and constant good spirits. Mona has a great love for the outdoors and spends much of her spare time enjoying scenic beauty of the country. Her memory for chemical formulas serves as a source of continuous admiration to her fellow classmates. More characteristic still is her deep appreciation for literature and "finer things of life" which have helped her produce original poetry, delicate and rich in imagery. That we have had the good fortune to enjoy her company is something we will not shortly forget.

A quiet reserve and placidity of manner combine to characterize the actions of Pat. Yet, we who have been her classmates, know equally well her keen humor, real talent for writing and interest in words, and the depth of thought of which she is capable. These have made her friendship interesting and satisfying. We are earnest in our wish that the future hold for Pat only the fulfillment of her plans and aspirations.

Myriam, affectionately called "Monkey," is best characterized, we think, by her indefatigable zest for doing everything and anything for anyone who asks. She has occupied herself with all types of projects, from boosting a spaghetti dinner for the Student Council, to decorating for one of the many social functions at the Academy. Teachers and students, recognizing this, have grown to appreciate and admire our very diligent Cuban student. Time out for sports, too, has found Myriam excelling in swimming and basketball. After graduation she plans attending college to study in the field of medicine.

Kate, mysteriously nicknamed S.O.S., has been one of the brighter lights of our class, giving us, when it was most needed, a glimpse into the realm of gaiety. Kate had been at Mountain Lakes High School before she decided to come to the Mount. Her pet peeve? Freckles! Although good in all subjects, she contends that History is her favorite, and her questions have stimulated many a lively discussion. We feel that her vibrant personality will assure her advancing in the profession of her choice.

Rosie hails from Morristown and a fine representative she is. Although generally quiet, just start her on one of her pet peeves like poor operatic singing and our classmate becomes quite loquacious. "Ro's" hobby is record collecting which, incidentally, has brought as much enjoyment to others as to herself. To Rosie goes much of the gratitude of the Seniors for helping us win those all-important basketball games, especially the Senior vs. All Star contest. Rosie hopes to enter the business world upon completion of her Senior year, where we are sure she will meet with much success.

Arlene E. Gallo

A good-natured, smiling friend is Arlene, whom the better one knows, the better one likes. She has the distinction of attending the Mount since Kindergarten. A source of irrepressible giggles when the mood seizes her, Arlene can be equally serious if the occasion demands. Her famous remark, "Did you see Alfred Hitchcock last night, Mr. Fenimore?" will long be remembered as will "I had to work late in the store and—". Whatever the future holds we feel sure she will do the Mount credit.

Carol's sincerity and sense of fairness have given her the faculty of making friends easily and permanently. Nicknamed "Goepf" by her classmates, Carol has won a place in the hearts of all the students at the Mount, as evidenced by the honor of being chosen "Autumn Queen." Let us not forget her amazing speed and accuracy on the diamond and in the court which has earned her the companion title of the "Senior One Man Team." After receiving her diploma Carol intends to be a secretary, in which pursuit we wish her the best of luck and success.

Her scrapbook, full of everything from "soup to nuts," serves as a constant source of amusement to her classmates. Kit has participated in many of our extra-curricular activities and has always been a staunch supporter of every undertaking of her class.

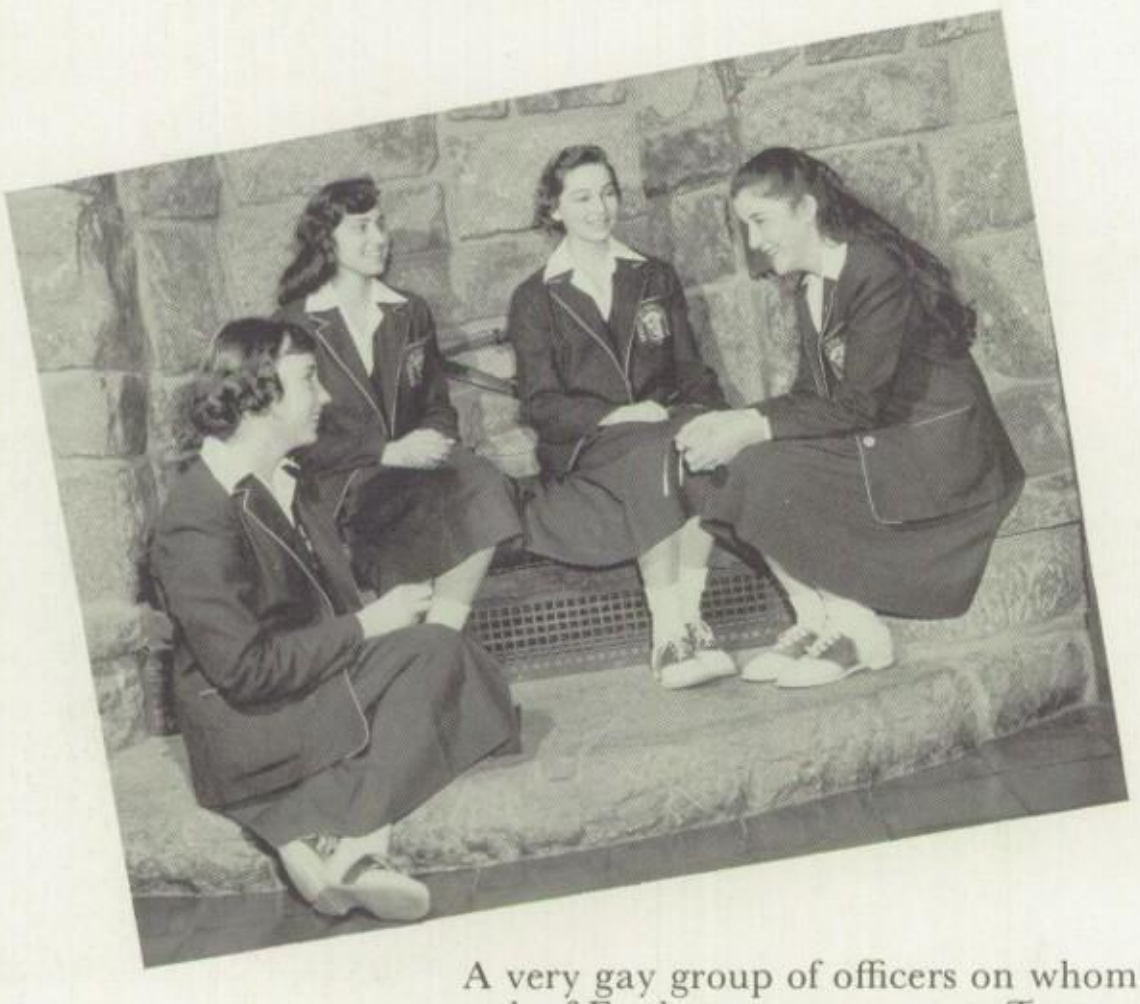
Classes

FRESHMEN



It is common knowledge that our Freshmen have had a very prosperous first year here at Saint John's. The school's largest class so far, they have lived up to standards set for them in addition to exerting their own individuality. Besides their curricular tasks, teachers and upper classmen have been pleased to see their activity in the Student Council and Operetta groups, and the success they made of their Tea for visiting eighth graders. When, in the late Fall, they teamed together with the Sophomores for a trip to the "big city," New York unfolded the marvels of "The Seven Wonders of the World" and the Metropolitan Museum of Art to them. Who will ever forget the race against time to arrive back at school on time to sing carols for the Christmas Performance that night?

Begun well and ended better, we hope the first year of our classmates will be a pattern and inspiration for a fine school life productive of lasting results.

A very gay group of officers on whom has weighed the task of Freshman government. Treasurer, Carol Monsees; President, Carol Rossi; Secretary, Mary Togno; Student Council Representative, Brigita Kearney, and Vice-President, Jean Farley, who does not appear, have proved their trustworthiness and ability this year.

"Well, here goes for the 69th time: 'We the frivolous, friendless Freshmen . . .' " Joanne Rossi and Denise Stehnicky seem to enjoy making Catherine Honour and "Eloise" Farley repeat the initiation pledge.

Who is Brigita planning to take a picture of? Ireland was never like this

INITIATION

"Nine months and eleven days ago our teachers brought forth upon this institution a new class, conceived in innocence and dedicated to the proposition that all freshies are destined to be initiated."

The first day saw red noses, eyebrows meeting under the chin, blue lips, Christmas ball earrings and newspaper skirts, which couldn't weather the "crawl" around the hall. Of course there was the profound prostration and recitation of "We the frivolous, friendless, fresh freshmen . . ." whenever a "sweet, suave, sophisticated sophomore" was encountered. All the trainfare and lunch money was in nice new shiny pennies which required more polishing under the keen eye of stern task-masters.

The second day witnessed the addition of the alphabet spelled backwards, alternated with "goo," for the Freshies showed their true colors attired in baby clothes with three-inch eyelashes and milk bottles. Lunch was eaten on blankets spread on the floor; the little ones were "fed" their strained foods by careful hands(the Sophomores', of course!).

Then came the trial! Freshmen filed silently into the court room to meet the solemn assemblage of their Sophomore jury. Accusations were read off to the defendants, ample defense presented by their "Counselor" Kearney (also a Sophomore), and as her gavel crunched a walnut, Judge Darold pronounced sentence. Warders Herdman and McNicholas then administered punishment.

Added note: refreshments were served and all the Freshies went home . . . SMILING!

"Z, goo, y, goo, x, goo . . ." Little ones enjoy their bottles and toys: Patty Fernicola, Jeannie Farley, Ginny Strnard in the first row, and baby Connie Lindsay and Mary Mulhare behind them.

Sister Vitalina Marie uses the Guidance period each morning to explain the Mass to the class. This is an invaluable aid toward helping them appreciate to the fullest the central act of Christian worship.

Linda Stires explains the process of filtration as Brigita Kearney pours the water into the clean flask. Freshman scientists seem interested in testing filtration.

Linda Corona begins the painting of her "Highwayman," as Linda Stires puts some last touches on her original symbol. Maryann Monti and Virginia Strnard admire each other's costume dolls, Maryann wondering how Virginia ever successfully designed that intricate cone-shaped hat.

SOPHOMORES

Sophomores start their year off with alacrity by planning, secretly and intently, the initiation of the unwary Freshmen. The fun has a solid purpose, however, since the ice is broken for the newcomers, who, in their not-so-bitter humiliation, are made to feel a part of the school.

Scholastically our Sophomores have shown an unusual diligence, whether in attacking the mechanics of typing, the intricacies of history and geometry or the 2:15 sessions with Caesar, replete with "nix de Alpibus Montibus." Their genuine eagerness for study has been a delight to the faculty and administration.

Home room period has been devoted to a deepening of their awareness of the spirit of each season of the Church year, including Advent Wreath ceremony and discussions, the practice of choosing of a "Chris-kin," a pre-Lenten celebration and offering, Laetare program and May devotions.

A real law-making ability was evidenced in the production of a masterly and smoothly working constitution. A class trip and retreat were also participated in with profit, and weekly cake sales were planned to help the poor Treasurer's endeavor to keep the accounts balanced.

Sophomore Class officers from left to right are: Judy Herdman, Treasurer first term, Vice-President second term, and Student Council Representative first and second terms; Lois Darold, President first and second terms; Jeanne Kanack, Secretary first and second terms; Esther Memoli, Vice-President first term and Student Council Representative second term; Mary Gemma Kearney, Treasurer second term, and Paddy Colligan, Student Council Representative first term.

During a class meeting, Sheila McNicholas proudly presents a Sophomore Constitution which after "due process" is unanimously adopted. An amendment was subsequently added to provide for the possible re-election of officers for a second term.

Father Jude explains the details of a confessional to a group of intrigued Sophomores.

Mr. Fenimore shows Denise Stehnicky the fine points of map reading as her classmates look on amused.

"Hens & Chickens" an appropriate title for one of the Sophomores' favorite games.

Kathleen Yee points out the Arar River on the map she made to enable her classmates to keep tabs on Caesar and his legions as they marched to and fro over the Alps. Arlene Hughes listens intently. Pat Duyckinck, Mary Gemma Kearney, Esther Memoli, Marcella Snyder, and Dolores Baacke admire some of the class' Health Project work.

Listening to Italian records is a favorite with our Italian I scholars. Lois Darold is dilgently keeping up in the dictation book.

JUNIORS

Junior year is notorious for its heavy class schedule and activity program. Students immersed in American History, Biology, Bookkeeping, and English still found time to plan a Prom and participate in the other social events of school life. Perhaps most important among the events was the week-end retreat; high school days seemed fast slipping by and serious thinking was deemed appropriate. Then there was the day spent at the Vocation Exhibit, with a few Juniors returning home with a "hint" or "maybe" in their hearts. Class rings added significance and the gradual realization that next year was "IT" brought the term to an auspicious close.

Plant or animal? Biology students equipped with microscopes ponder the riddles of science under the capable supervision of Mr. Fenimore.

A group of Juniors listens intently as Father Jude explains the solemn ritual of incensing the altar.

Juniors are busy making plans for—what else?—the Prom. From the looks of their faces, it should be a big surprise and success!

Tangos, rhumbas, sambas—Mrs. Stout, physical education instructor, shows the Juniors intricate little steps which they are fast to grasp.

Axioms, postulates, theorems—Juniors puzzle out the "whys and wherefores" of geometry under Sister Lucy's patient gaze.

Those girls are at it again! Carmen is full of amusing little incidents which her classmates are eager to hear.

"Always remember and cherish thy name!"

Activities

Staff members, busy as bees, planning 1957 Veritas from left to right are: Johanne Peroni, Editor-in-Chief; Elfriede Roth, Assistant Editor; Rose Frankenberg, Typist; Patricia Dolcey, Co-editor; Sr. Mary Elizabeth, Advisor; Margaret Phillipps, Assistant Editor; Myriam Dubourt, Chief Artist; Julia Cavinato, Chief Typist, and Kathleen Maloney, Layout Artist.

VERITAS STAFF

"—and $75 worth of patrons will entitle you to a free yearbook." Mona and Myriam explain the ways and means to help the Seniors publish their book to a group of interested Freshmen.

Seniors glance through previous yearbooks hoping for inspiration.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Mary Evelyn is preparing an announcement as Myriam holds the notes as an aid.

President Myriam Dubourt crowns Carol Goepfert Queen of the Year, as Julie Cavinato, another candidate, assists.

Sr. Adolfa presents Vice-President Julie Cavinato with an award for "Homemaker of Tomorrow."

Chairman Johanne Peroni and Co-chairman Mona Cremin arouse the amusement of their chums as they explain the Victorian ideal of Courtship?

LITERARY CLUB

The Literary Club made its reappearance this year, limited to Seniors only. Lively and informative discussions have been held. The members feel that the aim of the club, to cultivate an appreciation and understanding of the masterpieces and masterminds of literature, has been realized. The club's activities include a survey of the Victorian Era, analysis of modern literature, and the dramatization of comic sketches.

CATHOLIC PRESS MONTH

Various activities served to deepen the awareness of necessity of wholesome and holy reading. Seniors explored the realms of Catholic thought and reported their gleanings to their classmates. They thus became acquainted with various current periodicals, books, minds and ideas on the Christian theme.

Sophomores sponsored a rather obstruse poetry contest to tease the intellects of their friends. All classes made frequent trips to the library where Sister Juliana and Sister Vitalina Marie and their helpers had arranged an attractive and inspiring book display.

Barbara Jones, Julie Cavinato, and Rose Frankenberg peruse some of the new books displayed in the library during Catholic Press Month.

LATIN CLUB

A Latin Club has made its debut this year, an enthusiastic undertaking of the Cicero Class. The first project was a news broadcast by Johannes Cameronius Swazius given in costume to the student body. Pertinent news items were discussed, and a fashion show was "picked up" from the Coliseum, and a scene from the Senate with Cicero involved in the First Catilinarian Oration was portrayed. Another project worked on was a paper in English and Latin to aid the students in an undertaking of Roman background and its value.

Members of the Latin Club look thoughtful as Helen Ike, President for the second term, asks for ideas concerning the Latin newspaper. Unique in that it has as many officers as members, the Latin Club includes Johanne Peroni, Eileen Middelstaedt, Helen Ike, Margaret Phillipps, Elfriede Roth and Patricia Dolcey.

Mary White, Vice-President; Carol Goepfert, President; and Rose Frankenberg, Secretary; try to answer the question posed by member Joan Small.

FUTURE SECRETARIES OF AMERICA

Commercial students have united to form the F.S.A., an organization designed to further them in their determination to make expert secretaries of themselves. Meetings were held under the guidance of Sister Vitalina Marie and aimed at the character development of the future business women together with the uncovering of new facts about the secretarial world. Two business managers did research into various phases upon which the members reported and held discussions. Various projects were also gotten underway for the Building Fund.

"Each heart now rejoices, our lovers are blest!" The cast of "Barbarina" gathers around the young noble, Cherubino, and his lovely bride, Barbarina, as Figaro and Susanna join in the happiness.

BARBARINA, OUR OPERETTA

In their flight from the wicked Count, Barbarina (Nancy Jacobus) and Cherubino (Elfriede Roth) stop to admire some deer in the forest.

Cherubino is consoled in his sorrow by Figaro (Barbara Jones) and Susanna (Margaret Phillipps). These two later devise a plan to help the young man escape from a wicked plot.

Executive Board: First Row: Sister Theresa, C.S. Sr. Mary endeavors to clear up the mysteries of 8th Grade Math to her young scholars.

Intense work carefully guided is the keynote to success.

The class takes advantage of a stroll to look a little more closely at the stations of the cross.
